PRESIDENT GUY WEST

Our president, Dr. West, received his degrees from New Mexico Western College, University of Colorado and the University of California. He has also attended Columbia, Arizona and Texas Universities. During his many years in the field of education he has served as high school teacher, principal, and has held several key positions with New Mexico Western College and Chico State College. He is a member of Kappa Delta Pi Honor Society, Phi Delta Kappa and the State Committee on College Accreditation. He is past president of the Rotary Club and the Northern California Educational Research Association. Dr. West was made president of Sacramento State College upon its founding in 1947.

Our Johnny Can't Read

Members of the faculty presented a skit for the alumni during the Homecoming celebrations. It concerned a college student who had been in school for years and was trying to get his diploma. He had enlisted the help of certain faculty members to plead his cause to the college board. Having flunked every course in school once and was on his second or third time around, he needed the sympathetic pleas of Betty Coed (Mary Jane Rees), Dr. Parker and Robert Good, who portrayed his "Maw."

Right: Maw waits her turn to plead for justice for her boy.

Robert Else, as Johnny, pleads his cause to a stern board consisting of Dr. Christie, Dr. Bradfield and Dr. Parker. Mary Jane Rees stands by to help.

Dr. Christie sings her answer to Betty Coed.

ZANE VORHES

I would like to think of this past year as a preview of things to come in the future of Sacramento State.

Our college is steadily gaining stature as an institution of which we all can be proud. We all are looking forward to the day when Sacramento State will be viewed as having the best of athletic teams, the largest of social activities and the finest educational program to be found anywhere. A Utopia of this sort cannot merely be thought about. If we want it, it has to be worked for. I think that all of us have carried ourselves in this manner this past year. I would like to thank you all individually for the splendid cooperation and support you have given me.

May you have the best of fortune, always.

Good luck and goodbye—

THE BOARD OF JUSTICE

The function of the Board of Justice is to interpret and carry out the laws of the constitution. This year's board, headed by Chief Justice Tom Willoughby, had an outstanding year, highlighted by their action in the case of the Associated Students versus Don Baxter and Bruce Becker.

A branch of the Board of Justice is the Attorney General, who was appointed by the ASSSC President to prosecute cases brought before the Board, and to supervise the on-campus clubs.

STATE PRESIDENT OF C.S.T.A.

Barbara Hansen, a junior at Sacramento State College, is the president of the California Student Teacher Association for 1955-56. California Student Teacher Association is the oldest organization of its kind in the United States and is in its nineteenth year in California.

Miss Hansen, studying elementary education here at Sacramento State, hopes to become an elementary teacher.

Miss Hansen has done considerable traveling in line with her duties, going to Los Angeles, to Chico, and north to Humboldt County. She attended the National TEPS Conference in Chicago last summer, held in connection with the National Education Association convention.

ATHLETICS . . .

is responsible for stimulating student interest in all intercollegiate sports engaged in by the ASSC as well as responsible for the organization of an intramural athletic program. This year, with the untiring efforts of faculty, students and alumni, SSC entered into conference play in football, basketball, track, baseball, tennis, golf and boxing. Equally beneficial was the successful organization of intramural sports which included activities for individuals or groups, men or women, and faculty or students.

ELECTIONS . . .

had a mighty big job this year. It was up to Betty to govern the policies of all student body, class and special elections as well as to check the qualifications of candidates for office before granting petitions to circulate to individuals or their sponsors. You probably saw Betty and some of her helpers busy during the Freshmen Class Election in the fall, the Homecoming or Casaba Queen Contest, or the Class and Student Body Election this spring.

FINE ARTS . . .

was also kept busy this year—in fact, it became necessary to appoint an assistant to help ease the load. Both Bob and Jim worked hard to stimulate the students of SSC in drama, art and music. Drama offered two major productions this year, each time seeking student participation. Visual art activities at SSC also provided opportunities in the field of fine and commercial art. Numerous exhibitions of student work were highlighted by the yearly exhibit presented to the general public. A fine music program which included the Little Symphony, Concert Band and Chorus added to the importance of music here at SSC. Christmas programs and Spring Concerts by the Band and Chorus and faculty recitals at the Crocker Art Gallery added sparkle to the full fine arts program.

PUBLICATIONS . . .

main duty is to govern all publications and communications of the student body. Doris was also responsible for encouraging student interest in the various publications on campus. The Student Association publishes a weekly newspaper, the HORNET; a yearbook, the STATESMAN; a handbook, and the Student Directory. A literary magazine, the SCRIBE, is also published.

Doris Caldwell
Publications

PUBLICITY . . .

coordinates with Dr. Christie all publications and communications of interest to the students. Beverly releases all news and announcements to the Harnet, maintains all bulletin boards. It is her job to gather all data important to the student body and release same to appropriate newsgoing organizations. Her main job is to act as a coordinator between news agencies and the State College. She succeeded Knute Martin who held this position last semester.

Beverly Bernardo

is under the supervision of the Executive Council, with its main objective being to develop college spirit among the students and faculty, and to promote the welfare of the college and the Student Association. You've probably seen Don and the rest of the Rally Committee at SSC's football and basketball games, assemblies, rallies or around the campus, helping wherever and whenever they can.

Don Baxter
Rally Committee

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES . . .

is responsible for the organization and supervision of all social events sponsored by ASSC. Sue, along with her crew of helpers, has really worked hard to successfully continue some of SSC's traditions that happen once a year—such as the New Students Tea in the fall and spring, the Junior Prom in December, election and crowning of a Casaba Queen in February. In the month of May the Jamboree, all college-student faculty picnic, and the Student Loan Fund Drive were held. There've also been get-acquainted dances, fun nights and after game dances.

Sue Bibb
Social Activities

WORLD AFFAIRS . . .

is responsible for the promotion and supervision of any campus-wide or international activity. It was up to Shirley to organize the Madel United Nations Delegation, and to act as a temporary chairman until a permanent person had been elected by the delegation which represented Italy. It was also Shirley's job to organize the World University Service Drive which is designed to aid students in foreign countries.

COMMITTEE RALLY

The Rally Committee, headed by Don Baxter, planned and conducted rallies and served at special events. They acted as guides and hosts to campus visitors, and worked hard to carry on a continuing program to initiate and preserve traditions for Sacramento State.

Homecoming, with its Bonfire Rally parade of floats, alumni welcoming and football game was organized by the Rally Committee.

Rally Committee also worked hard to make the new students feel "at home" their first couple of weeks on the campus. Then there was the selection and crowning of Deanna Peters as our 1956 Casaba Queen, along with some other memorable events that were planned and carried out by the Rally Committee.

This year, Bruce Becker led the Greens Committee while Carolyn Robinson had charge of the Golds. Both groups worked hand-in-hand with each other, trying to promote the organization's main objective . . . to develop college spirit among the students and the faculty, and to promote the welfare of the college and the Student Association. A note of appreciation should also be given to Rally Committee's two sponsors: Dr. Willard Smith and Mr. Norman Hunt. Both gave much of their time and effort for student activities.

MODEL UNITED NATIONS

The sixth annual session of the Model United Nations meets this year at Oregon State College in Corvallis on April 4, 5, 6, and 7 with Sacramento State College representing Italy.

Model United Nations is a student activity sponsored by the western colleges who represent the major countries of the world. The delegation acts, feels and behaves as the country whom it represents—a replica of the actual United Nations with all of its problems of rivalries versus co-operative effort, its strengths versus its weakness.

Record of the Year

Graduation, followed by the Senior Ball, was the main event of the year for the class of '56. Some of the seniors who received their degrees are pictured on the following pages.

The class gift was decided to be a large bronzed bell set in a concrete foundation. An alternate suggestion of a large outdoor bulletin board was considered also.

The senior party, "Salute to Seniors" was another class activity during the year. The class also contributed to the WUS Fund and made plans for Jamboree.

Carol Dudley, a member of the senior class, won recognition as the 1956 Camellia Queen of Sacramento.

Record of the Year

The highlight of the year's activities for the Junior Class was their prom, "Christmas Dream," held at the Eastern Star Temple. As Prom Princess, Beverly Jopson reigned over the festivities, assisted by her attendants, Ruenell Knox and Peggy Asher. After recuperating from their efforts on the prom, the Juniors put on a Class Party and a Class Picnic in the Spring.

Class members also participated in the WUS drive and Jamboree.

Record of the Year

The sophomore class, led by President Ron Clark, began this year's activities with Dink Week for the purpose of initiating new freshmen into the student body. The initiating ceremonies consisted of Kangaroo Court, Soph-Frosh Scramble and closed with a welcoming dinner dance.

"Prelude to Winter" was the Sophomore's informal dance in the fall. The class also presented talent in the spring variety show and held a masquerade dinner dance for class members in April. A booth in the Jamboree celebration finished out the school calendar of events.

The Battle of the Monument—a now historic event—was the special feature during Dink Week. It is tradition that freshmen bow to a monument erected by sophomores and it is also tradition that the frosh try to steal the monument. Highlights of the events that have become legend are recorded on the following pages . . .

THE BATTLE OF THE MONUMENT . . .

It began when a huge monument appeared in front of the bookstore. No one was surprised except the sophomores, who, by tradition, are supposed to supply one . . . because the monument wasn't their's! Baffled, but undaunted, the Sophs used the giant stone spire and guarded it carefully. The frosh made a midnight steal of the huge object, although it was heavily defended by the upperclassmen. So the sophomores whipped out the monument they had planned on in the first place, but it, too, soon followed the path of the first.

The Freshmen only laughed at the futile threats of angry upperclassmen, and even when parts of the truth concerning the thefts came out, weeks later, they still did not completely explain the puzzling mystery . . . and so, at this writing, and perhaps for all time, the Battle of the Monument will go down in history as part fact-part legend, but always . . . a mystery.

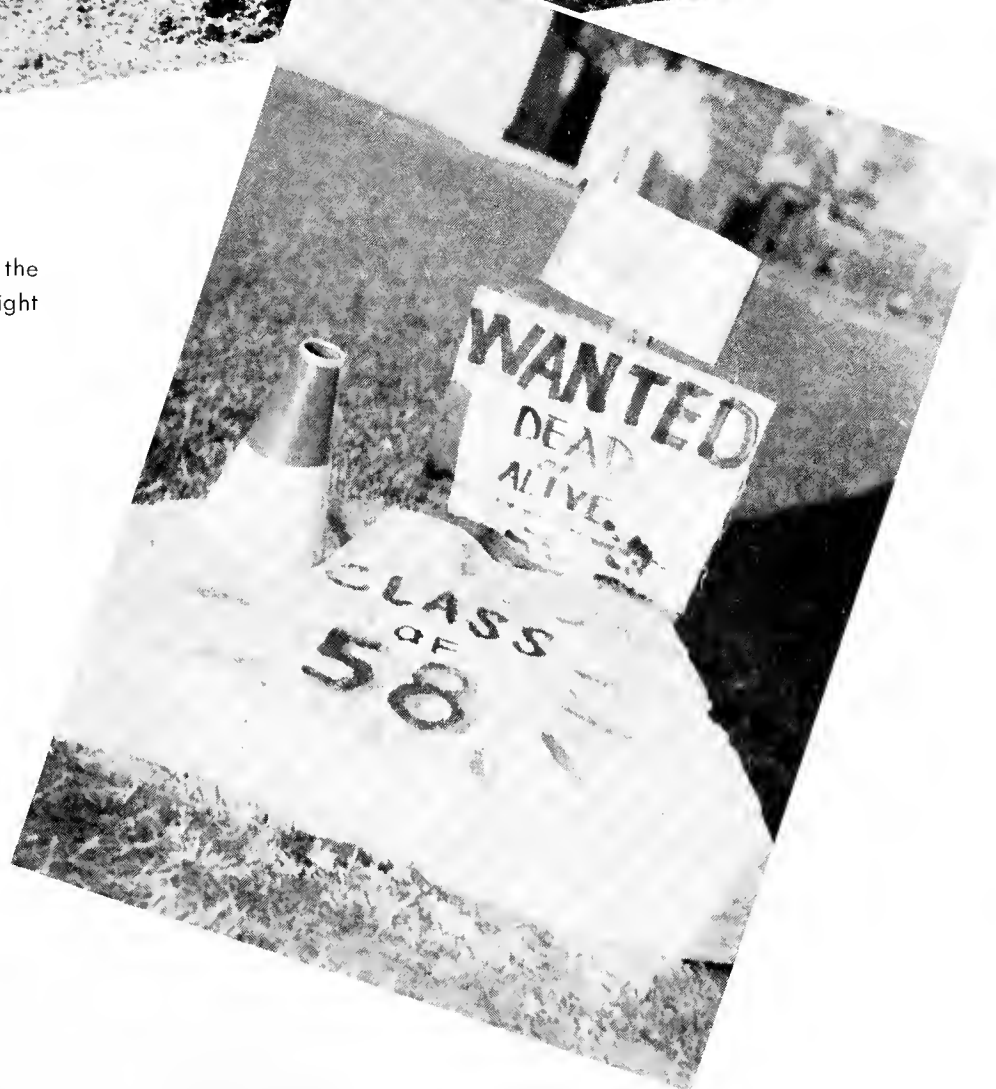

Below: Upperclassmen take precautionary methods by setting the first monument deeper in the ground. It disappeared soon after.

Freshmen bow low to the monument at the command of the mighty Sophomores. The Frosh solved the problem that night on another midnight theft.

A monument and a warning!

Record of the Year

The Class of '59 started the year with an election of officers in the Fall, for which they had one of the largest candidate turnouts in the history of the school. They took the Frosh-Soph Scramble and foiled the upperclassmen at nearly every turn during Dink Week. One of their achievements was the fielding of a Freshman Basketball Team, the first at Sacramento State.

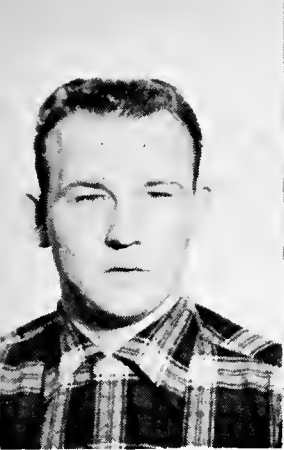

THE GREAT WATER FIGHT

TIME OUT FOR GINGER

Lana Isoard steps between Jacquelyn Allen and Rosalee Wible in this comical scene.

With three minutes to go in the third act, George Calder floors Tad Argante.

THEATRE WORKSHOP SERIES

The Student Directors on campus had a real heyday when the Theatre Workshop Series was presented in January. Included in the eight one-act plays were "The Glittering Gate," "The Twelve-Pound Look," "George," "The Valiant," "A Wedding," "Aria Da Capo," "Dust on the Road," and "The Noble Lord." Judged by the audience as the best plays in the series were "The Valiant," "George," "Dust of the Road," and "A Wedding."

The Valiant

Mystery and intrigue surrounding the identity of a man convicted of murder led to a suspenseful climax in this forceful melodrama. Barry Heath portrayed the condemned man who renounced his name and family to protect his dying mother. Also in the cast were April Pettijohn as the criminal's sister; Gary David as the chaplain; and Vern Franks as the warden.

Left to right: April Pettijohn, Gary David, Barry Heath, Vern Franks.

"Why, the wedding can't be over," Bea Palmquist tells Jacquelyn Allen and Jack Duke. "It hasn't even started yet!"

The Wedding

The hours just preceding the ceremony very often become quite hectic; especially when the groom decides, at the last minute, that he doesn't want to give up his gay bachelor days after all. This leaves the bride and the rest of the wedding party in a state of confused panic, and the audience in hilarious laughter.

Jacquelyn Allen and Jack Duke, portraying the undecided couple, were ably supported by Dick Gregory as Archie, the glory-stealing best man; Bea Palmquist as scatterbrained Aunt Julia; Lawrence Zunino as Ted, the groom's moral support; Wally Hood as the father of the bride; and Pat King as the mother of the groom.

"Oh my great, big, darling baby boy," sobs Pat King as Lawrence Zunino and Dick Gregory look disgustedly at Jack.

"Ouch!" was Jack's only comment as Jacquelyn tried to console him in this scene.

"Are they getting married? Of course they are, can't you see they are?" Dick Gregory belligerently tells Bea Palmquist as Jacquelyn and Jack embrace in this scene of "A Wedding."

Dust of the Road

"Dust of the Road" is a deeply moving drama with a message which should be taken to heart by everyone in this world of hard businessmen and small-print contracts.

Peter Steele and his wife, Prudence, played by Jim Condon and Mary Pool are about to cheat a dead man's son out of his two-thousand dollar inheritance. Sending Prudence's uncle (Dan Hoagland) out of the room, they begin to discuss their plans when a mysterious beggar enters. He lectures them on their evils, but gets nowhere until he reveals himself as Judas Iscariot, traitor apostle, wandering the earth paying for his crime.

Bill Taylor, as the tramp, gave a dramatic and absorbing performance, which kept the audience completely fascinated.

George

It may be perfectly natural for a young lady to bring her fiance home to meet her relatives, but when she is a very sophisticated young English lady and the relative in question is her husband, the door is opened to a sparkling comedy.

In the role of the unsuspecting George was Ric Carver, while Diana Lyons played the part of his intended, Larry Marshall portrayed her husband, and Pat Roland was her best friend, Sue.

Here we see Diana Lyons, Larry Marshall, Ric Carver and Pat Roland in a hilarious scene from "George."

Diana Lyons informs Larry Marshall of her intentions to marry another man.

Larry Marshall briefs Ric Corver on what marriage will be like with Diono Lyons.

In this tense scene, we see Connie Silver, Rosemary Stevens, Judy Niederloh, Ric Carver, Richard Beisang, Gene Chesley, Lavonne Larison, Joyce Turk, Lee Hart, Emily Merkley, and Gary David

Jane Leon pleads with Walt Leineke, who portrays her husband in the drama.

The Crucible

Chosen as the second play of the season was Arthur Miller's tragic tale of the Salem witchhunts and trials. The deeply moving play centered around John Proctor, an honest farmer, who made one mistake and had to pay a very large price.

Walt Leineke tries to reason with Judy Niederloh in this scene from "The Crucible."

FOOTBALL 1955

The fall of 1955 saw the second year of football as Sacramento State. Coach Dave Strong was faced with the problem of building a team around a very few returning lettermen.

The first day of practice saw two new faces on the coaching staff, in addition to Hal Wolf, helping Strong were Hank Elespuru and Jim Vitti.

The Hornets started strong, winning their first two games against Southern Oregon and Treasure Island Navy.

The confidence and will to win was never to be denied the Hornets as they let each opponent know they were in a real ball game. Halfback Eddie Soto earned a first team spot on the All conference team. Tackle Dave Hotell was named to the second eleven.

Up in the air goes Sullivan in an attempt to block Sonny Rolfe's shot; Rolfe proved too fast and elusive for the Nevadan and scored on this beautiful play.

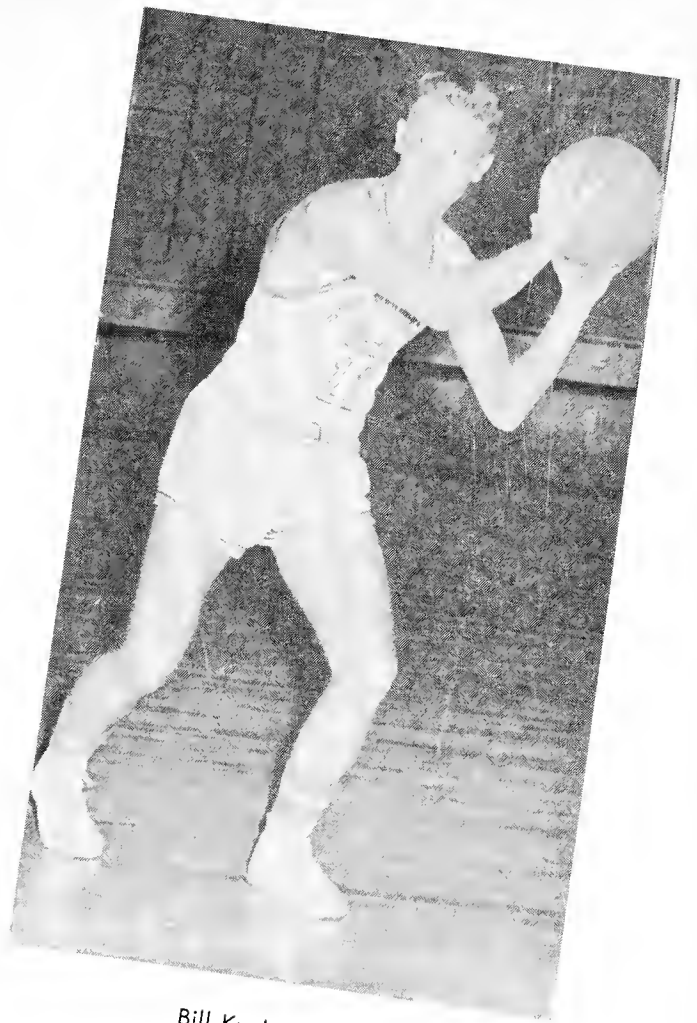

Fast break time: One of the many times during the season that the opposition was not around to contest the two points. Chuck Mobley (10) scores as safety volves Frank Troutman (3) and Bob Syftestad stand poised for a rebound.

Will it be a hit or a miss?: This is on everyone's mind as Bob Syftestad's shot is on the way.

"Ouch!" Ron Limeberger hits the floor hard during Pacific game. Chuck Mobley has the longest arm in the struggle for the rebound.

"Let's see now, who shall I give it to?" says Frank Troutman as he attempts to keep the play alive. Bob Syftestad tries to persuade Frank to give him the ball.

Bob Syftestad seems to climb Ken Longero's back as he pushes through two points in the Hornets' 71-65 win over the Wolves.
